

VOLUME XXVIII.....NUMBER 208.

ite bare announcement, cannot a particular consideration of the South. The right which Charleston have had to secede from the Union, because the laws would not suffer them to go to the highway. The only rebels are more trouble to Kurlin and his to effect their im-commodation on any other terms. It will require a succession of humiliations to bring them to that. The necessity of reconciling themselves to the confinement of slavery within its existing boundaries, mitigation of the natural consequence, immediate emancipation, is a lesson which they are in no mood to learn from anything but disaster. Two or three defeats in the field, breaking their military strength, though not followed by an invasion of their territory, may

We take the following extract from an article in "Fraser's (Edinburg) Magazine" for February, the advance sheets of which have been received by Judge Appleton, of this city, from the author of the article, John Stuart Mill, Esq., one of the most distinguished English writers of

If, however, the purposes of the North may be doubted or misunderstood, there is at least no question as to those of the South. They make no concealment of their principles. As long as they were allowed to direct all the policy of the Union to break through compromise after compromise enough step after step, until they reached the pitch of claiming a right to carry slave property into the territories.

and, in opposition to the laws of those States hold it as property there, so long as they were willing to remain in the Union. The moment a President was elected of whom it was inferred from his opinions that he would take any measures against slavery where it exists, but that he would oppose its establishment where it exists not,—that moment they broke loose from what was, at least a very solemn consideration and formed themselves into a Confederation professing as its fundamental principle the entire perpetuation, but the indefinite extension of slavery. And the doctrine is loudly preached through the new Republic, that slavery, whether black or white, is a good.

Let me in a few words, remind the reader what sort of a thing this is, which the white oligarchy of the South have banded themselves together to propagate, and establish, with all the force of law and arms.

When it is wished to describe any portion of the human race as in the lowest state of degradation, and under the most cruel oppression, to which it is possible for human beings to live, they are compared to slaves. When words are sought by which to stigize the most odious despotism, exercise in the most odious manner, and all other comparisons are found inadequate the spots are said to be like slave masters, or slave drivers. What, by a rhetorical license, the worst oppressors of the human race are the way of attainment of the ...way of stamping on them the most hateful character possible, are said to be, these men, in very truth are I do not mean that all of them are hateful person any more than all the inquisitors, or all the buccannera But the position in which they occupy, and the abstract fluence of which they are in arms to mankind habitually selects as the type of all hateful qualities. I will not bandy cleanly about the more or less of stripes or other torments which are daily required to keep the machine in working order.

discuss whether the Negroes of the States are more numerous among the slave owners of the Southern States. The broad basis of the case suffice. One fact is enough and, heaven knows, vicious and tyrannical institutions in ample abundance

Mr Olmsted affirms that there has not in a single year past in which this horis not known to have been perpetrated one part or other of the South. And upon negroes only the Edinburgh Review in a recent number gave the hideous details of the burning alive of an unfortunate Northern bucketer by Lynch law, were suspicious of having aided in the case of a slave. What must Americans ry be, if deeds like these are necessary under it?—and if they are not necessary and yet done, is not the evidence that slavery still more damning? The men who are in rebellion not for simple slavery, but for the right of rebellion, they are in rebellion for the right of

we are told by a strange misapprehension of a true principle, that the South has a right to separate, that their separation ought to have been consented to by the North, and that the North, in resisting it, showed themselves ready to perpetrate a crime against the rights of human creatures alive.

are committing the same error and are g which England committed in oppos- time he original separation of the thirteen ses-ies. This is carrying the doctrine of arm sacred right of insurrection rather far exha wonderful how easy and liberal and of the ring people can be in the slave

...ing people can be in other people's shoes. Because they are willing to suffer for their own past, and have no objection to join in reprobation of their great fathers, they never put themselves in question what they themselves would do in circumstances far less trying, under pressure of real national calamity tell those who profess these ardent revolutionary principles consent to their application to Ireland or India, or the Islands? How have they treated those who did attempt so to apply them? In the case can dispute with any more at the word rebellion. I do not scorn-say that I have sympathized more or identically with the most of the rebel successful and unsuccessful, which taken place in my time. But I cer-nely conceived, that those being a rebel, that the act of taking arms against one's fellow citizens was atrocious in itself, was so completely a justification, that no question need be asked concerning the motive. It seems strange doctrine that the most serious and responsible of all human acts is no obligation on those who do it of anything that they have a real grievance; one who rebel for the power of opposing others, exercises as sacred a right as who do the same thing to resist

tion practised upon themselves.—
rebellion, nor any other act which the interests of others, is sufficient-estimated by the mere will to do it—may be laudable, and so may any insurrection; but it may af-enormous crime. It is the end or poster er, according to the object and the the So tion. And if there ever was an ob. presen use of apparel, the freedom of the cities, if it resigns to them when outright that power of evil which it not grant to retain them, the Un-will incur the pity and disrepute of all eyes. And no one can suppose that truth would have consented, or in their temper ever will consent, to an account of the Slave States, unless as far greater disadvantages, with no should no longer have the weary and exhausted North for an ally. The time might come when the barbarous and implacable South would be so situated as to be helped into existence, without require a general crusade of civil and Europe to extin-

...ing people can be in other people's shoes. Because they are willing to suffer for their own past, and have no objection to join in reprobation of their great fathers, they never put themselves in question what they themselves would do in circumstances far less trying, under pressure of real national calamity tell those who profess these ardent revolutionary principles consent to their application to Ireland or India, or the Islands? How have they treated those who did attempt so to apply them? In the case can dispute with any more

at the word rebellion. I do not scorn-
say that I have sympathized more or identically with the most of the rebel
successful and unsuccessful, which
taken place in my time. But I cer-nely conceived, that those being a rebel, that the act of tak-ings against one's fellow citizens was notorious in itself, was so completely justification, that no question need be asked concerning the motive. It seems strange doctrine that the most serious and responsible of all human acts is no obligation on those who do it of doing that they have a real grievance; one who rebel for the power of opposing others, exercises as sacred a right as who do the same thing to resist

tion practised upon themselves.—
rebellion, nor any other act which
the interests of others, is sufficient-
estimated by the mere will to do it—may be laudable, and so may any
insurrection; but it may af-

enormous crime. It is the end or poster er, according to the object and the the So
tion. And if there ever was an ob. presen

FROM B. HEN. O. FLOR.
400 B. Super FLOR.
300 lbs. Extra white K. PL. & FLOR.
200 B. Extra white FLOR.
100 Bush Western MIXED PL. & FLOR. deod. A. P. & WOOD

---

Molasses.
MILAYED AND MUSCOVADO in Hds.
Theress and Barrell (1844)
TREAT & CO.

[Faint handwritten notes at the bottom of the page]

ILLUSTRATED
SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN
—THE—
Best Mechanical Paper in the World.
SEVENTEENTH YEAR.
VOLUME VI—NEW SERIES.

A NEW VOLUME of this widely circulated and useful series of conferences on the first of June, published weekly, and every number contains sixteen pages of useful information, and fifteen original engravings of new inventions, and fifteen copies all of which are prepared expressly for the columns.

To the Mechanic and Manufacturer. No person engaged in any of the manufacturing pursuits should be without this volume. It contains four or five new inventions every number, and six to ten engravings of every number containing, which enable the new machine and

To the Inventor.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is indebted to every inventor, as it not only contains the descriptions of nearly all the best inventions that come out, but each number contains a number of the claims.

ed States Patent Office. We have thus given a correct history of the inventions in this country. We are now in Paris, France, and Germany, and are in possession of all that is transpiring in these countries and are in these old countries. We will continue to transfer to our columns. We will send from these journals of whatever we may deem interest to our readers.

Chemists, Architects, Millwrights and Farmers.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN will be found a most useful journal to them. At the new law school the science of chemistry is given the same rank as the interests of the architect and the engineer, and overlooked; all the new inventions, and the progress pertaining to these pursuits are given from week to week. Useful and practical information pertaining to the interests of inventors and mill-owners will be found published in the Scientific American, which information they can easily obtain from any other source. So much planters and farmers are interested in and discussed.

TERMS. To mail subscribers: Two Dollars (2.00) for the complete volume for six months, one Dollar (1.00) for the complete volume for three months. Subscriptions are payable in advance. The volume is published in January and July. Specimen copies will be sent to any part of the country. Address for orders and instructions to inventors about this publication sent free.

sent at par for subscriptions. (Cash in advance) will please to remit twenty-five dollars extra for each year's subscription to prepay postage.
 MUNN & CO., Publishers, 12 Nassau St. N. Y.

USE THE
WIGWAM TONIC

IT IS THE FINEST AND BEST
RING MEDICINE
KNOWN.
IT IS AN UNEQUALLED
Purifier and Regulator of the Blood

is a Delightful Tonic.
it and it will do you good by WARREN, ALDEN & CO. Barport GOODRICH New Haven, Ct. Apothecary
Special, 146 Water-st. New York 61 & 62 W. 1st St. N. Y.

nal and normal circulation of the blood. An abnormal, that is to say, independent circulation or stagnation, is the disease. To illustrate—typical of it is caused by stagnation of the blood in the sinuses of the kidneys, inflammation of the bladder of the Heart, etc., by the use of Improper Circulation; and from the foregoing all minor forms of disease. For certain cure, then, for these diseases, the enquiry necessarily is. What causes the circulation? It has been a common saying that "the blood is the life of the body."

[illegible]

we breathe, we know to contain a very small portion of oxygen. It is brought in contact with a metal, evolves electricity, and is brought in contact with a muscular fibre, and contracts.

to contract, and hence the arteries contract, and the blood and sends it forth with great force. What time are the eruptions, Dropsy, Palsy, Paralysis, Pains, Dispepsia, Epilepsy, Fever &c., a deficiency of the nutritious iron, sulphur and phosphorus, which carry of electricity, and consequently circulation. The blood becomes acid, and bronchial complaints and pneumonia suffer, because nervous and subcutaneous and neuralgic complaints and kidney &c.

...the red globules, and thus the mortality. Consumption rate. Friends of consumers from an "organic" disease."

who have by express invitation or the spectacle of the band and drum columns. Looting sufficed for the main feature. Looting is the "organized" and more you think about it, the more it is. It has been a long time since we have seen a band of looting where a band has been of respect that do not want your Blood. Blood is a very important thing.

[illegible]

Supply just received by
D. BUCKLEY & CO